

ESTATING

JOB PROFILE – PROJECT MANAGER (M/F/D)

Why Estating?

Do you have the aim giving everybody the ability to access attractive property, not limited to their place of origin nor their financial strength? Then don't stop reading, you have found us!

We want to change the world by democratizing and disrupting the access to the property market and offer its advantages to all.

We will scale fast. While it begins with qualified investors this is only the start. Estating's goal is to create wealth for all. Extending the advantages of investing in properties to the retail saver and eventually the un-invested, wherever they are and with whatever level of investment they wish to make.

Estating's aim is to create a wealthier society. If you have the interest and the talent to help us achieve that faster, have a down to earth attitude, like getting remarkable things done while having fun then we would like to hear from you.

What will you do?

You will be responsible for overseeing the successful completion of projects end to end. You will create, organize, execute and complete specific projects in various fields within Estating. Important to know: We still don't have complex project structures in place. We need someone who gets things in motion and just does it!

You will report directly to the COO, in close content coordination with the CPO.

Your key responsibilities:

- Determining and defining project scope and objectives
- Preparing budget based on scope of work and resource requirements
- Developing and managing a detailed project schedule and work plan
- Providing project updates on a consistent basis to various stakeholders about strategy, adjustments, and progress
- Monitoring progress and making adjustments as needed

What qualifications do you need?

- You solve problems creatively
- You have a proven ability to complete projects end-to-end according to outlined scope, budget, and timeline
- You have a strong familiarity with project management software tools, methodologies, and best practices
- You are a hands-on doer not afraid of getting your hands dirty
- Nice to have: a strong understanding of the real estate and/or the financial markets
- You speak business fluent English (our company language), German is a strong plus

What do we offer?

We don't want to start here with the usual fresh fruits and free drinks like anybody else. We have much better to offer!

- We are a really experienced and international team of digital-savvy finance experts and key executives with successful start-up know-how united by the mission to create a win for society.
- We are flexible regarding remote work. But if you wish to work from our office, we are based very centrally in Berlin in a beautiful one. You are always welcome there.
- Estating is a founder-driven flat hierarchy organization where you will have an impact from day one.
- We are offering a very competitive salary.

Does this sound interesting?

We are looking forward to your application to founders.estating@estating.com with your CV, a 60 seconds video introduction, your possible start date, and your salary expectations.

The global marketplace for direct real estate
Bringing real estate access to everybody creating a wealthier society