

ESTATING

JOB PROFILE – WORKING STUDENT IT OPERATIONS (M/F/D)

Why Estating?

Do you have the aim giving everybody the ability to access attractive property, not limited to their place of origin nor their financial strength? Then don't stop reading, you have found us!

We want to change the world by democratizing and disrupting the access to the property market and offer its advantages to all.

We will scale fast. While it begins with qualified investors this is only the start. Estating's goal is to create wealth for all. Extending the advantages of investing in properties to the retail saver and eventually the un-invested, wherever they are and with whatever level of investment they wish to make.

Estating's aim is to create a wealthier society. If you have the interest and the talent to help us achieve that faster, have a down to earth attitude, like getting remarkable things done while having fun then we would like to hear from you.

What will you do?

You will be the new IT Help Desk/single point of contact for all of our new joiners. You will manage their whole infrastructure by working according to standard company procedures. You will report directly to the COO, in close content coordination with the CTO.

Your key responsibilities:

- Selecting hardware and software components
- Installing, configuring and 1st level support for hardware and software
- Administering of access rights
- Ensuring that all software is always up to date

What qualifications do you need?

- You are excited about new developments in both, computer software and hardware
- The ability to write VBA scripts is a strong advantage
- You speak business fluent English (which is our company language) and German, an additional language (e.g., Spanish, French, Russian) is a strong advantage.

What do we offer?

We don't want to start here with the usual fresh fruits and free drinks like anybody else. We have much better to offer!

- We are a really experienced and international team of digital-savvy finance experts and key executives with successful start-up know-how united by the mission to create a win for society.
- We are flexible regarding mobile work. But if you wish to work from our office, we are based very centrally in Berlin in a beautiful one. You are always welcome there.
- Estating is a founder-driven flat hierarchy organization where you will have an impact from day one.
- We are offering a very competitive salary.

Does this sound interesting?

We are looking forward to your application to founders.estating@estating.com with your CV, a 60 seconds video introduction, your possible start date, and your salary expectations.
